JOURNAL OF NUMISMATICS.

The AMERICAN JOURNAL OF NUMISMATICS is published by the BOSTON NUMISMATIC SOCIETY, quarterly, at Two Dollars per volume, in advance. The Fourteenth Volume began in July, 1879. The JOURNAL is now publishing in consecutive numbers the fullest account of Masonic Medals that has ever been issued; and also a complete list of the Medals and Coins relating to Canada. Subscriptions and communications to be addressed to

JEREMIAH COLBURN,
18 Somerset St., Boston, Mass.

The following notice of the publication is from the Boston Evening Transcript:

The AMERICAN JOURNAL OF NUMISMATICS is one of those publications that indicates how, with all the bustle, utilitarianism, and intense devotion to the practical present, characteristic of this age and country, some are to be found with taste and zeal to look after the things which concern history and æsthetics, and keep up the annals even in departments the rushing public leave behind as of no account. The handsome January number is another evidence of the care of the Committee of Publication, who have filled it with curious and entertaining matter, the result of correspondence and research; winding up their own sober labors with a bit of humor after the brief-jotting fashion. To all who care for medals, coins, and much else that relates to archæological investigation, the advice is, do as the disinterested editors themselves do—subscribe for this serial and pay ($2 a year) in advance.

LIBRARY OF ABORIGINAL AMERICAN LITERATURE.

General Editor and Publisher:

D. G. BRINTON, M.D., 115 South Seventh Street, Philadelphia.

NOW READY.

No. I. THE CHRONICLES OF THE MAYAS. Edited by Daniel G. Brinton, M.D. 279 pages. Cloth, uncut, $5.00 ($3.00 when a complete set is ordered).

This volume contains five brief chronicles in the Maya language of Yucatan, written shortly after the Conquest, and carrying the history of that people back many centuries. To these is added a history of the Conquest, written in his native tongue, by a Maya Chief, in 1562.

No. II. THE IROQUOIS BOOK OF RITES. Edited by Horatio Hale. 222 pages. Cloth, uncut, $3.00.

This work contains, in the Mohawk and Onondaga languages, the speeches, songs, and rituals with which a deceased chief was lamented and his successor installed in office. It may be said to throw a distinct light on the authentic history of Northern America to a period fifty years earlier than the era of Columbus.

No. III. THE COMEDY-BALLET OF GÜEGÜENCE. Edited by Daniel G. Brinton, M.D. 146 pages. Cloth, uncut, $2.50.

A curious and unique specimen of the native comic dances, with dialogues, called bailes, formerly common in Central America. The introduction treats of the ethnology of Nicaragua, and the local dialects, musical instruments, and dramatic representations. A map and a number of illustrations are added.

No. IV. A MIGRATION LEGEND OF THE CREEK INDIANS. By A. S. Gatschet. 251 pages. Cloth, uncut, $3.00.

This learned work offers a complete survey of the ethnology of the native tribes of the Gulf States. The strange myth or legend told to Governor Oglethorpe, in 1732, by the Creeks, is given in the original, with an Introduction and Commentary.

No. V. THE LENÂPÉ AND THEIR LEGENDS. By Dr. Daniel G. Brinton. Cloth, uncut, $3.00.

Contains the complete text and symbols, 184 in number, of the WALAM OLUM, or RED SCORE of the Delaware Indians, with the full original text, and a new translation, notes, and vocabulary. A lengthy introduction treats of the Lenâpé or Delawares, their history, customs, myths, language, etc., with numerous references to other tribes of the great Algonkin stock.

The Issues of the Press in Pennsylvania.

1685 to 1784.

PRICE TO SUBSCRIBERS, $10.00.

This work is an attempt to present full titles and collations of all the books, pamphlets, and broadsides issued in Pennsylvania during the hundred years following the introduction of printing into the Province. It will contain over four thousand titles, of which about one-third cannot be found in any bibliographical work. About one-half of these are strictly accurate, having been made by personal examination of the books, etc., in the principal libraries of England and America. The remainder were obtained by a careful examination of all the newspapers published in Philadelphia prior to 1785, bibliographical works, sale and other catalogues.

The work will form two volumes of about four hundred pages each, and the edition will be limited to two hundred and fifty copies. Subscriptions are solicited for the two volumes, but should they prove inadequate to cover the cost of printing, the compiler only engages to furnish one volume (covering the years 1685 to about 1760), which will, in that case, be issued to the subscribers as a complete work at $5.00. The price to non-subscribers will be $7.50 per volume.
